Flood waters have caused and are still causing damage to roads, bridges and railway lines in the district. At the present time the only way a car can get across the river to the south country is at the Bassano dam or at Calgary.

Last Wednesday two spans of the old wooden bridge, crossing the river south east of Cluny, went out. The Indians spent much time looking for the spans down the river but failed to find them. Latest reports say the spans are at the Bassano dam many miles from their original site. Since the bridge was some thirty years old it is doubtful if it will be brought back and set up again. This bridge went out twenty years ago but as it was scattered along the banks of the river for a mile or so the spans were taken apart and hauled up the river and set up again. The Call, March 26, 1928 has the following to say about the bridge going out at that time: "Last Thursday evening the wooden bridge across the Bow River was carried completely away, leaving only the approaches on either side. The ice on the Bow jammed above the bridge and when it broke through of tons of accumulated ice rushed with terrific force to the bridge and carried it away. The bridge was carried some distance down river and divided into three sections. Crowfoot creek bridge east of Cluny was carried out the same night."

The small bridge crossing a back water a short distance south of the steel bridge connecting Gleichen and Arrowwood has collapsed. The running ice and water have carried it into the river. The bridge was carrying a load of lumber and it is reported that the volume of water in the river was so great it was feared the bridge would be damaged. The bridge was so great it was feared the bridge would be damaged. The bridge was so great it was feared the bridge would be damaged.

Crowfoot Creek has been on the rampage and all records it has broken all records. Some say it rushed down in a wall of water. The creek makes provision for scholarships, valued at $300 each, to be offered to the two best high school graduates whose parents reside within the boundaries of the Bow Valley division. These scholarships will be granted on the condition that the students take a one year teacher training course and agree to teach in the Bow Valley school division for a period of three years after graduation.

Due to the increased cost of education in practically every field of school administration, it was found necessary to increase the budget over and above the previous year. This was found necessary even though the provision for capital expenditure is very small.

The board of trustees at its last meeting also took action to place new insurance on school buildings, the former policies having expired. In a separate resolution, custodians of departmental examination papers were appointed in all school centres where final examinations will be held in grades IX and XII.

Miss E. M. Mortenson of Kelsey was appointed to the teaching staff, effective April 15th to take over grades and VII in Arrowwood, replacing Mrs. B. M. Dettler who had submitted her resignation.

Some discussion also took place, at the last school meeting, on the conditions and the resulting school attendance during the months of February and March. It was noted that the school attendance was low for these months. It was realized, however, that this was only to be expected in view of the extreme road conditions which continued during this period. The board recognized and greatly appreciated the efforts made by the municipality in snowplowing and clearing roads in order that as many vans as possible might operate during this period. Without this assistance on the part of the municipality the school attendance might have been even lower.

The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Monro, cousins of the bride, for a few friends and relatives. Mr. Robert Black proposed the toast to the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Black will reside in Calgary.

In these troubled times when individual freedom has disappeared or is threatened in so many parts of the world, considerable reference is made to the freedom of opportunity we enjoy in Canada. But what can we do in order to take advantage of this opportunity? Unfortunately, too often we look for opportunities everywhere except in the right place, where we are and in the job we are doing. We give the matter some serious thought, we realize that everyone can improve his job. No matter what the job may be, it will improve to the extent that it is done with interest and enthusiasm and in a lively spirit of co-operation.

If we put the foot on the other foot and look at people in the other jobs we see how these qualities add up to success. When we have things to buy we admit perhaps without realizing it.

Bow Valley School Trustees Meeting

The 1948 budget as recently adopted by the Board of Trustees of the Bow Valley school division again makes provision for scholarships, valued at $300 each, to be offered to the two best high school graduates whose parents reside within the boundaries of the Bow Valley division. These scholarships will be granted on the condition that the students take a one year teacher training course and agree to teach in the Bow Valley school division for a period of three years after graduation.

that there is a great difference between the people who sell us the things we need. When we need a hair cut, most of us don't go just to any barber. We go to a barber we know, one who, we think, is better than the others we have patronized. We go to a hotel or restaurant, we like to go where we know a waiter who has given us good service in the past and will continue to do his job well. We use this selective method every time we can, whether it is in dealing with an individual or a company. It is just good common sense to try to be better than your competition. If we study our jobs and criticize ourselves we can be better. It's just a case of realizing that the improvement of our own position lies entirely in our own hands.

A little more real sunshine and warm weather would be much appreciated.

CANADA'S CUP OF TEA

Canadians consume about four pounds of tea per person every year, standing fourth among the principal tea drinking peoples of the world. Canada's per capita average is less than half that of Britain, but more than the United States average consumption. In pre war years, one dollar worth of tea per annum went into every individual Canadian's tea pot but with the postwar price rise of 85 per cent, the average tea bill is now considerably higher.

India is Canada's main source of tea imports although large quantities are purchased from Ceylon. Prior to the war the tea gardens of Japan provided a fair proportion of this country's imports of green or unfermented tea. But since the war the black varieties from India and Ceylon. One of the types of commercial tea, black, oolong, green and brick, results principally from variations in the manufacturing process rather than from differences in the types of tea bushes. The leaves are fermented in manufacturing black tea, partially fermented in the production of oolong tea, and unfermented in manufacturing green tea. Brick tea is prepared and pressed into tablet form by China for the Russian market. The main output of black tea comes from India, Ceylon, the Netherlands East Indies and East Africa and the leading consumer, is Great Britain. Green tea is produced mainly in China and Japan, and is consumed principally in the United States, The United States, North Africa, Asia and Afghanistan. Oolong tea is manufactured in China and Formosa, and is consumed mainly in the United States. Almost the entire Canadian consumption is of black tea.

About 80 percent of all tea exports originate in India, Ceylon and the Netherlands East Indies, and almost 55 per cent of the total goes to the United Kingdom. Tea represents an important source of income for the principal producers, accounting for 60 percent of the total value of exports from Ceylon, and 12 per cent from India.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

: LADY AT WORK :

By FAITH KURT TIBERIO

CAROLA ADAMS sat between Redman Bixby and Lanny Devan, and tried to hide her nervousness. On her left, Redman, handsome, wealthy, stated to be the next Congressman from Outtown, watched the bidding. His huge frame overshadowed Carola's own small one, and made Lanny seem taller and thinner by comparison. Lanny was less handsome than Redman's, less forward, and much less wealthy.

"How much am I bid for this, folks?" the auctioneer asked, holding up a mahogany music box. It's the finest one I've seen in quite some time."

The box glistened in the sun, and Carola held her breath. "It's beautiful, isn't it?" she asked. Lanny, his tanned face a perfect blank, nodded. "It's just a music box," Redman said gruffly. "Nothing to get excited about." He squeezed Carola's hand. "You wouldn't want it?"

She swallowed, and said bravely, "But I would."

The sudden change came over Lanny. "I'll bid ten dollars," he said.

Redman frowned. Carola gasped. "Lanny, you mustn't. You've got to get your law library." She knew how Lanny slipped with money, and how she was sorry that Lanny came here, even though the three of them had gone around together since childhood. Since she was promised to marry Redman, everything seemed to be wrong.

"Fifteen," someone else said. In a matter of seconds, the bidding reached fifty dollars. Lanny sat down. "Carola," he said, "I've only got forty dollars for my name."

Carola sighed. "I can't do it. Oh Lanny, you shouldn't have tried. But thanks anyway." She smoothed the pink linen skirt which accentuated the daintiness of her figure. Redman leaned over. "Let me show you how it's done, Lanny. Struggling lawyers shouldn't go around trying to buy music boxes they can't afford. My voice was purposely loud enough for everyone to hear, Carola winced, and did not dare look at Lanny Bixby. Redman yelled.

People turned around to stare. They saw Redman, ball-like, dressed in the best tweeds, Carola, small and frightened, and Lanny, white-faced and angry. Carola heard people whispering. "That's Redman Bixby, the dark-haired girl next to him is his fiancée. He'll get the box, all right. Always gets what he wants."

The wanted to scream, but when it came to Redman, he was in the hundreds. "For heaven's sake, Redman," she said, tugging at his sleeve, "don't bid any more. The box isn't worth it."

Redman shook her off impatiently. "I'll bid," he said, and then he said, "Carla, you see I've got to bid, to keep up appearances. Why doesn't that chunky stop bidding? Three hundred and ninety-five," he called.

A hush fell over the crowd. The other bidder shook his head and then mopped his brow with a handkerchief. "Sold," the auctioneer called. "Sold to Redman Bixby. Right here, sir," he pointed to the bookkeeper's desk.

The wind rustled the leaves slightly as Redman walked through the camp chairs to pay for the box. His face was flushed red with triumph, and a smile was on his lips.

Carola saw with a start that Lanny had gone. Without a word to anyone, she left the auction and hurried down the mill path, hoping against hope that Lanny would be at the mill. They used to play there, when they were kids. As she rounded the bend, her heart nearly stopped when she did not see him. Then she saw that he was sitting on a big rock, his head in his hands, staring gloomily into the mill water.

Lanny," she called, "Lanny, it's Carola."

He untied his length, slowly, as if he did not believe that Carola was there. "Carola," he murmured, "as soon as she could get her breath, 'because I love you, of course.'"

"But . . . but I thought . . . that is, Redman," he stammered.

"Redman, nothing," Carola said firmly, moving closer to him. "I've loved you all along, I guess, but I had to make sure. That's why I asked you to come to the auction with us. I proved that Redman didn't really love me at all. I was just an other possession."

"But he got the box for you, didn't he?" Lanny asked.

"Oh, yes," Carola said. "Just to show you up in front of everyone. Well, you can have it, and good luck to him."

Carola ran his hand through his hair. "Gosh, he said, 'gosh, I never thought you'd fall for me. I didn't say I was in love with you. I just said I loved you. I was just an other possession.'"

A troubled expression crept into Lanny's eyes. "That's something else again, Carola. We can't get married. I can't afford the box, and from the looks of things, it's going to take me quite a while to get my law library."

Carola took Lanny's arm and laughed softly. "That's the funny part of it, dear. We have enough now, thanks to Redman and his ego. That music box was mine, you know."

Canada's Stock Of Farm Animals Is Taking A Downward Trend

OTTAWA.—Canada's stock of farm animals is following a downward path. Figures released by the Bureau of Statistics show that the numbers of cattle, sheep and horses on Canadian farms have fallen off considerably during the last year and are substantially below their wartime peaks. The report supplemented a recent survey showing a decline in hog numbers.

At Dec. 1, the business report, the number of cattle was estimated at 8,943,500, down 72,000 from the corresponding date in 1946 and off nearly 2,000,000 from the wartime high of 10,769,000. Reductions occurred in Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, Quebec, Alberta and British Columbia.

Of the cattle total, 3,666,000 were milk cows, which were down 50,000 from Dec. 1, 1946. The number of sheep was estimated at 1,586,700 against 1,752,200 a year ago and a wartime peak of 3,726,000. Horses dropped to 1,979,400 from 2,243,200 the preceding year and 2,845,000 in 1943.

Experimenting In Products Made From Straw

REGINA.—Utilisation of Saskatchewan-produced straw in the manufacture of wallboard building material is being investigated by the provincial Government.

Experiments, still in their early stages, are being conducted in Regina and Saskatchewan to determine whether pressed straw would provide satisfactory material in wallboards. (The Saskatchewan experiments are being carried on in co-operation with the National Research Council's laboratory there.)

Experiments into the use of straw fuel 1949, coal tar and paper are also to be conducted at a later date. Saskatchewan produces an estimated 30 million tons of straw annually.

Agriculture Minister J. C. Nolleit announces that the Government is studying results achieved in Sweden where straw is used extensively in the manufacture of wallboards. "It's possible," he said, "that similar results could be achieved here, although our straw is much drier and consequently would need more processing."

Mr. Nolleit said, however, that he personally favored returning straw to the soil to strengthen its fibre. He points out also that many farmers feed out and barley straw and use it for bedding down their animals.

Now, that may be all right for a little character like myself, but let me tell you, these grown-ups sure are lucky what Mr. Mervyn says them Crown Brand Corn Syrup with all the vitamins and minerals. And she uses it in her baking, too, as a sweetener."

"I can hardly wait until I'm old enough to have some hot waffles or pancakes smothered with delicious Crown Brand. It's as good as it is in my cereal—mmm!"

For years doctors have recommended the use of Crown Brand Corn Syrup as a satisfactory carbohydrate acting as a milk modifier for bottle-fed infants.

RECIPES

RHUBARB PIE

1 pint rhubarb
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt

RHUBARB PIE

1 pint rhubarb
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
Wash rhubarb, cut into 1/2 inch pieces. Mix with careful mix. Line deep pie pan with crust. Fill with mixture, top with crust. Bake in oven. Measure pan before mixing ingredients, so that no more may be prepared than pan will hold. Must be covered with an upper crust, or baked in narrow strips of crust or baked in lower crust only, and crispified after. In this case, 1 or 2 beaten egg yolks are usually mixed with rhubarb.

HERE AND THERE

Ted Froggatt, the manager of the hockey team is more happy these days than if the hockey team had won the championship of Alberta, because on Friday, April 25, Mrs. Froggatt presented him with a daughter.

Bob Hoskings, proprietor of the Pioneer Meat Market, is a real progressive man. He was the first man to get his yard cleaned up this spring and he now has Interior Decorator Nunn painting up the butcher shop. Bob believes in having everything all right and span.

Last week everyone thought spring had arrived for sure. Monday morning it looked as if winter was setting in. All day long a real spring blizzard blew, by nightfall the snow had ceased falling only to start again during the night.

Mr. and Mrs. Brad Tustan and child of Manyberries were weekend visitors to Gleichen being the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Brown. Mr. Tustan who is agent for the C. P. R. at Manyberries was a resident of Gleichen for several years and was an operator at the station here.

Last Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Brown of Calgary were entertained by their sons and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. C. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Brown and Mr. and Mrs. J. Brown at the latter's home. Mr. and Mrs. Brown are going home to Scotland next month for a visit of several weeks. The party was in the nature of a send off. The evening was spent in playing bridge at which four table took part.

1938, Belfast, N. Ireland. We shall see them some bright morning.

Resting by the waters fair, They are waiting for our coming, In the upper garden there, —Remembered always, the Family.

SAFE TRACTOR OPERATION

When working around the tractor this spring avoid accidents by common sense, safe operation. Rubber tired equipment permits travel at high speeds and the number of accidents since its introduction has increased noticeably. E. B. Martin, extension agricultural engineer, department of agriculture, says that a combination of high speed, quick turning and braking of one wheel is responsible for many of our most serious accidents. For general operation leave the connection hitch in place. This ties the brake pedals together and results in uniform brake action on both wheels. Individual braking of the rear wheels should not be used except in cases of necessity.

During the next most serious cause of accidents is an unprotected power take off shaft. You are asking for trouble if you operate a power unit with the shield removed. Another cause of serious accident is the operation of a tractor on roads and highways after dark without lights. The driver of a car approaching at 40 miles an hour may be unable to stop in time after your outfit is seen by him. The law requiring lights on a moving vehicle on the roads after dark is for your protection.

The child on a tractor is a child in danger. All too often children are seriously or fatally injured from riding on or playing around tractors. Watch how you grasp the crank handle. Taking hold of the handle so that the fingers and thumb are on the same side of the crank may prevent a broken arm.

Most operators are aware of the danger of running an engine in a closed building, but cases of carbon monoxide poisoning still occur. Open the shed doors or provide an exhaust pipe to the outside if you have to run an engine in an enclosed space.

Don't fill the fuel tank when the engine is hot. Gasoline spilled on a hot tractor may burst into flame and cause serious loss.

Finally either stop or idle the belt pulley when putting on a drive belt. Take all precautions possible. A tractor is an excellent servant, but a few seconds of thoughtless operation can turn it immediately into a monster of death or destruction.

HEALTH INFORMATION

Approximately 60 percent of children in school these days show one or more physical defects according to carefully compiled statistics. Medical and public health authorities are urging on parents the importance of examinations. "Be sure to give the child a chance for success in studies and in sport by remedying any minor defects which would otherwise be a handicap," one medical authority advised parents. Have the doctor examine your child now, to detect, and correct, any minor troubles.

In the first year of World War II, no fewer than 23 per cent of Canada's volunteers were found unfit for service because of bad teeth and diseased gums. Commenting on this startling statistic a health authority on dental health declared, "Although young men, then, chaps had mouths which were old and crumbled by decay and by pyorrhea. Dental care is essential to fitness. The young Canadian—in fact every Canadian—should see the dentist at least twice a year to ensure oral health.

Pointing to the Dionne quintuplets as examples of the value of mother's milk medical authorities stress the importance of natural feeding for infants. It is stated that the quintuplets' survival, at least in some degree, to the breast milk rushed to their home from far-off points soon after their birth. In some United States breast-milk centres, human milk is sold for as much as 35 cents a ounce—or about seven dollars a quart. Medical science places great store by mothers' milk.

Wiring Supplies

Are still in short supply but during the winter we have been able to purchase a fair supply. So we are able at the present to wire your complete farm or home rewiring your home and make it safe or take care of any alteration to your present electrical system.

Look around your home and ask yourself: "Is my home safe against fire due to unsafe electrical equipment or wiring?"

We sell, install and maintain service on Onan 22 Volt and 110 A.C. power and light plants. This is the plant that was used by the Cdn. Army, Overseas, and found so dependable.

HELP IN CASE OF ACCIDENT

POISONED WOUNDS—From bite of animal—Treat immediately. Wash under running water to remove animal saliva. Have patient lie down and remain quiet. Apply ligature or bandage above wound to prevent spread of poison. With tip of knife or razor blade, sterilized by passing through flame, if possible, cut into wound, a depth of  $\frac{1}{8}$  to  $\frac{3}{8}$  inch over each fang mark, and let poison run out. Apply suction, or if no other means available, suck wound out by mouth, provided there are no open sores or wounds in mouth, and remove as much poison as possible from it. Be careful not to swallow. Continue suction for about a half hour. Cauterize with nitric acid, chloride of zinc or nitrate of silver, or by applying white hot iron. Give patient stimulants and rush to doctor at once.

BURNS AND SCALDS—Skin unbroken. A paste of baking soda in water; cod-liver, olive or castor oil; or vaseline. Cover with sterile gauze. Where skin is broken, apply wet baking soda, gentian violet jelly, picric acid gauze, or tannic acid jelly. Keep dressing moist. Chemical burns—wash immediately with large quantities of clean water before applying any other treatment.

FAINTING—Place flat on back, head lower than rest of body, loosen clothing, allow plenty of fresh air and keep warm.

LIGHTNING OR SUN STROKE—Loosen clothing, dash cold water on face, treat for shock. In case of sun stroke, remove to shade. Apply cold water to head.
